INVESTMENT STRATEGY

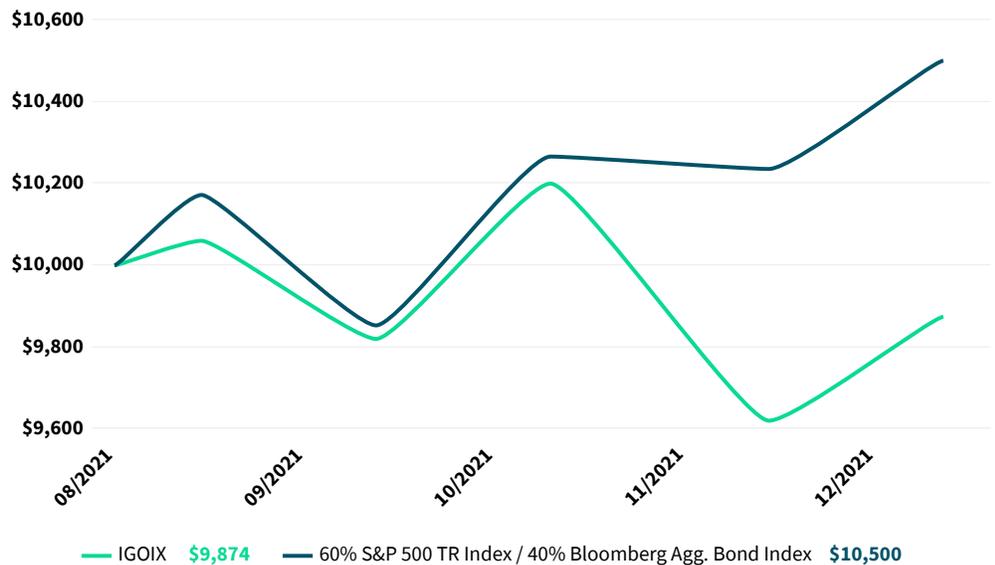

- » The Fund seeks to achieve its investment objective by investing in securities that the Sub-Advisor expects to increase with elevated U.S. inflation or with expectations of higher U.S. inflation.
- » The Fund primarily invests in the common stock of domestic and foreign companies, including ADRs and REITs, with any market capitalization within sectors and/or asset classes that the Sub-Advisor believes to have a strong positive correlation to inflation, including, but not limited to, real estate, infrastructure, energy, blockchain technology services and commodities.
- » The Fund may also invest in ETFs to gain exposure to a sector or asset class when obtaining the desired exposure is not available through investment in common stocks or when investment indirectly through an ETF would otherwise be beneficial to the Fund.

Seeks to Manage Inflation Risk - It is difficult for investors to manage inflation risk. The Fund seeks to be an efficient way for investors to benefit in an inflationary environment.

Diversification Potential - The Fund provides exposure to a diversified portfolio of securities that are expected to benefit from rising inflation that would be difficult to replicate for a retail investor.

Long Manager Track Record - The portfolio managers have extensive experience in financial markets, and have worked together for over ten years.

Why Should Investors be Concerned with Inflation?

- » Traditional bond asset classes, which have historically been viewed as low risk, are particularly exposed to rising interest rates and inflation.
- » Today's unprecedented expansionary fiscal and monetary policies to finance spending on the COVID-19 pandemic relief, infrastructure renovation and social benefit programs create potentially new risks for investors.
- » U.S. Debt/GDP is at its highest since World War II.
- » Pent up demand combined with increased personal savings have sent prices for goods and services significantly higher as the U.S. economy reopens from COVID-19 restrictions.

Risk Considerations:

Investing in the Fund carries certain risks. The value of the Fund may decrease in response to the activities and financial prospects of an individual security in the Fund's portfolio. Because the Advisor is primarily responsible for managing both the Fund and certain Underlying Funds, the Advisor is subject to conflict of interest with respect to how it allocates the Fund's assets among the Underlying Funds. Derivatives are investments in which the value is "derived" from the value of an underlying asset, reference rate, or index. The value of derivatives may rise or fall more rapidly than other investments. For some derivatives, it is possible to lose more than the amount invested in the derivative. If the Fund uses derivatives to "hedge" the overall risk of its portfolio, it is possible that the hedge may not succeed. Because the Fund may invest its assets in underlying mutual funds or ETFs that have their own fees and expenses in addition to those charged directly by the Fund, the Fund may bear higher expenses than a Fund that invests directly in individual securities.

The Fund has a limited history of operation and the strategies employed by the advisor may not result in an increase in value. The Fund may be non-diversified and the value and/or volatility of a single issuer could have a greater impact on Fund performance.
